

PRESIDENT GIVES CURE FOR UNREST

Would Throw Open Doors Behind Which Secret Policies Are Hatched.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The cure for social unrest in this country is "a fuller knowledge of American institutions," declares President Wilson in an article written for the current number of the Independent.

"Men today are blessed with a new curiosity about their government," says the President. "Everywhere they are demanding that the doors behind which secret policies have been incubated be thrown open and kept open henceforth. The doors that do not respond to the keys the people hold will be battered down and free passageways erected in their stead."

"Autocratic governments of the past have lived by concealment; free government must live by understanding. In the new day that is dawning only those governments that have no secrets from their peoples can long endure. I do not say that such a government will make no mistakes, but I do say mistakes will be fewer and more easily corrected when all governments are guided by well-informed public opinion."

"Unrest is evident everywhere throughout the world. It is not of itself a disease but a symptom of disease. In our own country the disease lies principally outside the Government. Those who think otherwise are mostly the newcomers and the men they have influenced. The cure for their discontent is a fuller knowledge of American institutions. In this nation the people have in their ballots the instruments of peaceful change. We can know if change is desirable only by knowing all the facts about the thing we wish to alter. The journals that give the facts about government, its policies and activities set down by the men principally responsible for them will afford a public service. They will afford a medium through which the Government can report continuously to the people."

AMERICAN PASSPORTS FORGED BY GERMANS

Plot Discovered to Enable Free Passage Through Europe by Enemy.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—A wholesale plot to forge United States passports to enable Germans to travel through Europe has just been discovered here. The deception in signatures was first detected by the French consul, M. Aubron.

Papers bearing the name of the Spanish Minister, Senor Delgado, who is in charge of American affairs in Berlin, were passing through the hands of the French consul when he became suspicious of the signature. He retained the documents, requesting the owner of them to return the next day. The following day the man who had presented the papers failed to put in appearance. However, the police were able to trace him through the photograph which was attached to the passport.

All the American embassies in Europe have been warned to watch out for forgeries.

ROMAN VILLA RELICS FOUND IN ENGLAND

Well-defined Remains of Town of Considerable Proportions Unearthed.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 14.—The well-defined remains of a Roman villa of considerable proportions have been discovered near the famous Roman-British camp of Ham Hill, Somerset, says a copyrighted dispatch from London to the Philadelphia Public Ledger. The discovery was made by Dr. R. Hensleigh Walter, of Stoke-under-Ham.

Recent digging has led to the discovery of well-laid foundations, a concrete floor with numerous tesserae scattered over it, portions of roofing tiles, fragments of painted wall-plaster and brick, defining definite evidence of a Roman villa of some size. The relics were sent to the country museum.

BIG HOTEL FOR LONDON.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—Devonshire house, the Duke of Devonshire's London residence, which was sold to J. M. Bowman, of New York, is to be the site of the largest hotel in London, built on the lines of the Commodore Hotel in New York, says a copyrighted dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

London authorities are averse to the building of skyscrapers, but they would not be uglier than the present building with its dingy brickwork and faded facade. It is easily the bleakest looking building in the west end of London.
